Just Transition: Green skills, social protection, inclusive and gender-transformative approaches

Wednesday, 12 June 2024, 14:45 – 16:00
Room Bonn, World Conference Center Bonn
Bonn Climate Change Conference 2024 (SB60)

About the event: In order to proactively seek solutions to achieve a Just Transition, this event aims to examine how to tap the immense win-win potential of the human factor by integrating green skills promotion and social protection as well as gender-transformative approaches in countries' transition strategies from the start.

At the Bonn Climate Change Conference 2024 (SB60), this UNFCCC side event will discuss:

- how to unlock the transformative potential of the transition proactively rather than only addressing the social and economic impacts of decarbonization;
- how the promotion of green skills and social protection can contribute to a just transition and ensure that vulnerable people in particular benefit from the transition; and
- how we can apply gender-transformative approaches in these policies and ensure adequate representation and access.
